

CONFERENCE PURPOSE

Each clinician strives to provide the best possible patient care, and now more than ever that means keeping clinical practice up-to-date with current evidence-based medicine. This conference will highlight today's top issues in women's health and focus on the practical applications of emerging research, ultimately answering the question, "What is the new Standard of Practice?" From contraception to infertility, osteoporosis to overactive bladder, this conference will address this question. Conference attendees will also have the opportunity to engage in colloquial discussion with one another as well as with the conference faculty.
